RAYNER SARCASTIC IN STEWART CASE

Assails President in Senate Speech for Exiling Army Officer.

STRICTURES KEEP SENATE LAUGHING

Roosevelt Never Uses Forceful or Vehement Language to Subordinate, Says Speaker.

With withering sarcasm Senator Rayther of Maryland assailed the course of the President with respect to Col. William F. Stewart, the coast artillery officer who was banished to Fort Grant, Arizona, and then to Florida, on the floor of the Senate today.

charges trumped up against Colonel Stewart were frivolous and petty and did not in the slightest degree affect his character as a man, his honor as & citizen or his courage as a soldier. Senator Rayner spoke in support of his resolution introduced yesterday directing the President to call a court of The Senate, extracts from the letter which the President recently sent him, TRADE BOOMERS In which he assailed Colonel Stewart in

Mr. Rayner said: They are charges, as the President is pleased to call them, of 'temperamental infirmities.' The President has concluded that Colonel Stewart is a man, who to have his own way, who in imitation of his constitutional com-mander-in-chief wants to dominate the severe terms. Discussing the charge

Rayner Raises Laugh.

Alluding to the fact that Colonel Stewart seemed to imitate the com-mander in chief in wanting to dominate things, Senator Rayner aroused laughter

These are charges, Mr. President, not that Colonel Stewart makes against the President, but that the President makes against Colonel Stewart. They relate to petty controversies, in which the President thinks Colonel Stewart ought to have yielded as he, the President, has always done. The President finds great fault with Colonel Stewart for using forcible language to a subordinate. The Senate well understands the President Senate well understands the President mever indulges in any forcible or vehement language, either in oral conversation or in written discourse. Of course, Mr. President, if all these charges are true, it is a matter of deep regret that Colonel Stewart did not exercise that degree of restraint that has been exercised by the President for the last three years, and that has kept the country free from every kind of tumult and commotion."

It is expected that a date will be set for the gereral meeting of the coundil.

Rayner in the course of his remarks and asked him to put into the Record a letter from Colonel Stewart describing the conditions at Fort Grant, an abandoned post in a desolate part of Arizona, with tumble down buildings.

The Senator began his remarks by disclaiming any hostility to the President and by saying that the President had made a great mistake in dealing with this case. He felt the President had made a grave error in regard to the extent of his prerogative. He declared he was actuated by no political motive in bringing the matter to the attention of the Senate. He then told in some detail who Colonel Stewart is and described his long and honorable career of forty years in the army.

Ranks Second Among Colonels.

He pointed out that he would reach The minimum age of retirement in 1911 and that he was now second in rank among the colonels of the coast and field artillery. He added that Colonel Wheeler, who is first in rank, would soon retire, thus leaving Colonel Stewart at the head. Senator Rayner followed with a description of the abandoned fort Stewart's only companions were a carestewart's only companions were a care-taker and a teamster. Following his description of Fort Grant he read to the Senate the War Department orders in Colonel tSewart's case, beginning with September 23, 1907, down to the present time, and the replies which Colonel time, and the replies which Colone Stewart had made to the War Department, From these orders it appeared the War Department by order of the President had given Colonel Stewart no alternative except to retire immediately or be sent to Fort Grant. Colonel Stewart asked for a court of inquiry, but he was given none and was confronted with no charges whatsoever. In one of his letters Colonel Stewart protested that a man was presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. Commenting on this Senator Rayner observed under this administration a person is presumed to be guilty until he is proven innocent.

Senator Rayner maintained that the hearages even if true were not such as to be taken seriously. He said that one related to a controversy Colonel Stewart had had with a civilian at Fort William, Me. Another related to a controversy between Colonel Stewart and an engineer at Pensacola, who desired to use the Government barracks and whose request Colonel Stewart had refused.

Another charge related to the fact that Colonel Stewart and a plumber at Pensacola, who desired to use the Government barracks and whose request Colonel Stewart had refused.

Another dispute was between Colonel Stewart and apparently was not prosecuted soon enough. Senator Rayner explained that Colonel Stewart had secured the conviction, but the President somehow seemed to think that he ought to have secured the conviction earlier. Another charge was that Colonel Stewart had used emphatic language to his subordinates.

The membership now numbers about fifty organizations, representing every section of the country.

Eugene Coggswell Was Victim of Accident.

Exonerated by a coroner's jury from all responsibility for the death of his eighteen-month-old daughter, Eugene, who died yesterday at the Children's Hospital, Charles H. Coggswell, of 568 N street southwest, was released from custody today.

He was taken in charge by the police last night, upon the request of Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, but subsequently released on $5,000 bail. Today he appeared at the inquest, and told of the circumstances surrounting the fatal accident, which occured on March 5.

According to Mr. Coggswell and other witnesses, he had been playing with his baby and tossing her in the air. Once he tossed her too high, and she fell to the floor, fracturing her skull. She was taken to the Children's Hospital inmediately, and it was thought until yesterday morning that recovery was probable.
